Death Traps - Wikipedia

Death Traps: The Survival of an American Armored Division in World War II is a 1998 memoir by Belton Y. Cooper. The book relates Cooper's experiences during World War II and puts forth an argument against the US Army's use of the M4 Sherman tank during the war.

Death Traps: The Survival of an American Armored Division ...

In a down-to-earth style, Death Traps tells the compelling story of one man's assignment to the famous 3rd Armored Division that spearheaded the American advance from Normandy into Germany. Cooper served as an ordnance officer with the forward elements and was responsible for coordinating the recovery and repair of damaged American tanks. This was a dangerous job that often required him to Death Traps is a shocking first-person story of the fatal vulnerability of America's tank force in France and Germany in 1944 and 1945. When it was first introduced in the North African desert in mid-1942, the M4 Sherman was the most powerfully-armed and most heavily-armored tank in North Africa. However, unlike the Germans and the Soviets, America did little to up-armor or up-gun this main

However, Death Traps is not just a soldiers memoir. It is an intentional indictment by an ordnance officer concerning the primary piece of equipment he was charged with being responsible for. Therefore, one would expect more care to be taken to ensure that the facts presented regarding the subject of the book would in fact be correct.

"Death Traps" by Belton Cooper r/tanks - reddit

Death Traps, by Belton Cooper. It keeps coming up in forum threads as people keep citing it, so I figured I may as well make my position clear in a more formal manner.

The book, commonly found, is well-written, an easy read, and provides good insight as to the thinkings and workings of a junior grade Ordnance officer in a field unit. I recommend reading it.
